

The Troy Foundation Bridge

The Troy Foundation Bridge was originally constructed in the late 1800's. The first railroad to use it was the Indiana, Bloomington, & Western Railroad in 1882. The majority of the bridge and railroad's life was used by the Big Four Railroad which was part of the New York Central Railroad. The railroad stopped transporting passengers in 1949 and was completely abandoned by 1977.

The Bridge is so named thanks to contributions from the Troy Foundation which allowed Concord Township to purchase the bridge and the adjacent right-of-way to restore the bridge as we see it today. Once the restoration of the structure was completed, Concord Township donated the bridge and land to the Miami County Parks District.
